THE ISRAEL ACADEMY OF SCIENCES AND HUMANITIES

Gershom Scholem Prize

2018 Call for Nominations

The Israel Academy of Sciences and Humanities and the Gershom Scholem Foundation are pleased to announce that the Gershom Scholem Prize, awarded every four years to an outstanding researcher in the field of Kabbalah, will be awarded in 2018. The Prize, in the amount of NIS 45,000, will be awarded in a ceremony at the Academy in Jerusalem.

Department chairs, deans and heads of academic institutions are invited to submit nominations for the 2018 Gershom Scholem Prize by June 30th, 2017. Nominees must be distinguished scholars with outstanding achievements in the field of Kabbalah, in any of its various trends and periods of development, including Sabbateanism and Hasidism. The selection will be made without regard to gender, nationality or religion.

Nominations should include:

- the candidate's résumé
- the candidate's list of publications

Three letters of recommendation should be sent by the writers directly to Sima Daniel (sima@academy.ac.il) for the Prize Committee by the submission date.

To submit nominations or for further information, please contact Sima Daniel at sima@academy.ac.il, or by telephone at +972-2-5676255.
